

SNAKE METAPHOR

Discarding what is of the past and confining
The old skin torn away
We emerge new and unfettered
The world transformed in the light of a truth
No longer hidden.
The journey lies within
The flame still small and tenuous
But no longer flickering in the dark.