

The Real Question

Why does the world exist?

That's easy.

So that we can know

a cool breeze

caressing our naked skin

on a warm summer's night.

The real question is ...

Who wants to know?